

History of the KTC

The KTC Königstein was a former sanatorium, which was re-opened in January 1971 as a training center for the Dresdner Bank AG. The size of the house evolved with the growing educational needs of a major financial group.

Since 2001, the KTC Königstein is an independent service company and convention hotel, that can also be booked by external companies. Since 2005 the hotel is a location for cultural events, corporate functions and family parties. Due to its special location at the foothill of the Taunus many sport clubs use the KTC as a training camp on weekends.
